

I'd like to comment regarding the National Association of Broadcasters' petition 04-160. What harm is there in competition? Isn't this country built on the premise of rewarding innovation?

I choose to pay for satellite radio because its offerings are far superior to the offerings of local radio. If local radio chooses not to provide the content I desire, don't I have the right to seek that content elsewhere?

I engaged in a contract (of my own free will) with XM satellite radio. That contract in no way harms any third parties (including local radio). Any law or mandate that seeks to limit that contract infringes on my civil liberties and violates the principles upon which this country was founded.
